Look at what I'm given This beautiful creation a sweet intoxication something pure in my life

Look at all these changes a light now shines within me and you'll be mine completely

I never knew this form of love existed.
Yet deep inside of me is where it all begins

So hold me in your heart as you'll have mine forever and when you lay inside my arms I'll protect you for always.
And never feel alone
for I'll always be with you
a home is where the heart is meant to be and you'll always have this home inside of me.

And we will walk this road together I'll shelter you from burden just lean your weight on me.
And storms may bridge the distance yet you will always have a home right here inside my heart there's a love waiting just for you.

I never knew this form of love existed.
A world away from love that I'd ever known.
No matter where the journey leads you if your path is some place new You'll always have a home in this heart of mine.

So hold me in your heart
and you'll have mine forever.
When you lay inside my arms
I'll protect you for always
And never feel alone
for I'll always be with you
a home is where the heart is meant to be and you'll always have a home inside of me.
